JDR Solutions weaving a web portal of information at ELFA convention

INDIANAPOLIS – Consumers bank online, purchase merchandise online and pay bills online. They can conduct equipment lease transactions online, too. An easy way to do that is through a custom web portal.

By visiting the JDR Solutions booth at the 56th Annual Equipment Leasing and Finance Association Convention, guests can learn more about portals and how the digital gateways save time and money. The Oct. 22-24 convention takes place at JW Marriott Orlando Grande Lakes, Orlando, Florida.

“We’re seeing an increase in interest among equipment lessors who want their own web portal for customer application submissions and payments, dealer and vendor invoice tracking, buyout creation, and other applications,” said Doug Williams, JDR’s vice president and chief information officer. “We’ve built a number of these portals, each custom made to meet the specifications of our clients.”

JDR has designed and built dedicated web portals for banks, manufacturer captives and independent lessors, Williams said. The portals are as unique as the companies themselves and carry the customer's branding.

Information on other JDR services will be available at the JDR booth – exhibit hall space number 20 – as well. Visitors will receive a gift and can register for a prize drawing.

In addition to web portals, Indianapolis-based JDR provides front end and back office portfolio management services and consulting to the equipment finance industry. Services include customized business process outsourcing, software as a service, collections and customer service, and other specialized professional services.

JDR complies with the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants' Service Organization Control 1 and 2 standards for financial and operational integrity. Customer data is secure and mirrored at multiple data centers in the United States.

Founded in 2001, JDR employs 23 full-time staff and part-time contract workers at its Indianapolis headquarters and Toronto, Ontario, field office.
